Brad Eben is a native of Illinois and now lives in Raleigh. He joins Conner Gwyn Schenck as an associate attorney after working for three years as an associate in Chicago law firms. After moving to North Carolina in 2020, Brad took and passed the North Carolina Bar exam. He also volunteered with Pisgah Legal Services in Asheville, providing pro bono legal advice. While in law school at the University of Michigan, Brad participated in the Transactional Law Clinic and moot court competitions. Brad majored in International Relations at Georgetown University, and is fluent in Spanish. At Conner Gwyn Schenck, he plans to focus on litigation and arbitration of construction claims and disputes.
